Now each of the apps are available separately in the App Store and many times come preinstalled on new Apple devices. These applications are phenomenally designed, easy to learn, and efficient to use. Pages, Numbers and Keynote built around the use of templates - and the templates provided by Apple are great! But we felt there would be a strong demand for more; so we set up this site to allow the community of iWork users to share what they have created. The Numbers app for the iPad and iPhone was designed from the ground up as the ultimate spreadsheet tool for the mobile platform. I now prefer both the Excel mobile app and Google Sheets, so my work on new templates for Numbers has ended. I have also discontinued the Spreadsheet Templates app for iPad. However, you can still download all of my Numbers templates for free from this page. Gallery of Templates for Numbers The following gallery of Numbers templates lists all of the files that I created specifically for Numbers. Most of these templates are based on my original Excel templates, so links to the Excel versions are also included. In addition to the 14 free, customizable templates below, you'll also find info on how to create your own Gantt chart in Apple Numbers. Templates on this page include project management Gantt charts, a marketing plan Gantt template, a monthly project schedule template, and an event planning Gantt chart timeline. Manage multiple projects with a single Gantt chart template. For each project, the template displays a list of tasks, starting and ending dates, duration in days, priority, and cost. A Gantt chart enables you to easily visualize project schedules and track your progress. The Status column features a dropdown menu for marking tasks as complete, in progress, on hold, or in need of review. Add the percent complete for each deliverable and actual versus estimated project hours. This advanced Gantt chart template enables you to track dependencies, milestones, and duration for tasks and subtasks. You'll also find a work breakdown structure (WBS) and columns for listing task owners and percent completion for each task. The Gantt chart is broken down into 52 weeks, so you can use it for short- or long-term planning. Enter a project start date at the top of the template to automatically update the Gantt chart calendar. Milestones are clearly marked with different colors, and you have room for brief descriptions. When you use a template, you can save time and customize it to suit your project. To create your own Gantt chart from scratch, see our detailed guide to creating Gantt charts in Apple Numbers. You'll get step-by-step instructions on how to create and customize your own chart. Get a Free Smartsheet Demo Your Mac's serial number is a unique identifier that distinguishes your Mac from all others. You have to provide your Mac's serial number when requesting warranty service. You may also want to look up your Mac's serial number if you're reporting it stolen. The easiest way to find your serial number depends on your situation. If your Mac turns on, you can find the serial number right in the interface. If it doesn't turn on, you'll need to locate it on the case or original packaging. And if you don't have access to your Mac at all—say, it's been stolen—you can probably still find the serial number through Apple's website. If Your Mac Turns On If your Mac is working properly, finding the serial number is easy. Just click the Apple menu icon at the top of the screen and select "About This Mac". You'll see the serial number displayed along with your Mac's model number, hardware specifications, and the version of macOS you have installed. If Your Mac Won't Turn On Your Mac's serial number is printed somewhere on the Mac itself, so you'll be able to find it if you can't turn your Mac on. Flip over a MacBook and you'll see the serial number printed on the Mac itself, near the "Designed by Apple in California" text. On a Mac Mini, you'll find the serial number on the bottom. On the Mac Pro, you'll find it on the back panel. If You Don't Have Your Mac If you don't have access to your Mac, you can still find the serial number in a variety of locations. If you signed into your Mac with an Apple ID account, the serial number is tied to your Apple ID account online. Head to the Apple ID account website and sign in with the Apple ID account you used on the Mac. Click the name of the Mac under "Devices" on the page that appears and you'll see the Mac's serial number. RELATED: How to Track, Disable, and Wipe a Lost iPhone, iPad, or Mac If you enabled Find My Mac on the Mac and it's been stolen or misplaced, you can track or lock it using the Find My Mac feature in iCloud. If you still have the box your Mac originally came in, look on the box. The serial number is printed on the barcode label on your Mac's original packaging. The serial number is also printed on the purchase receipt if you purchased your Mac from an Apple Store in person or in the email receipt if you purchased it from Apple's online store. Some other stores may also print the serial number of your Mac on the receipt, so check the receipt no matter where you bought your Mac from. Also, if you've ever submitted a warranty or service request for the Mac, you'll see the Mac's serial number displayed in the Apple Store service confirmation email. When you create a new spreadsheet, you choose either a blank template to which you can add tables, charts, text, and other objects, or an Apple-designed template that has placeholder elements including text, tables, and images. These templates, which are designed for purposes like personal finance, business, and education, give you a great starting point, and you can modify them however you want. You can also use Numbers to open and edit Microsoft Excel spreadsheets. Choose File > New (from the File menu at the top of your computer screen). Double-click a template for your spreadsheet. Here are some ways to customize your spreadsheet: Select a table cell, then type your own content. Click object buttons in the toolbar to add other tables, text boxes, shapes, and images. Drag tables and objects on the sheet to arrange them. When you close your spreadsheet for the first time, you are asked to give it a name and location. If you have iCloud set up on your Mac, Numbers saves your spreadsheet to iCloud by default, but you can save it to your Mac instead. You can also move a spreadsheet from iCloud to your Mac and vice versa. To learn more about saving a spreadsheet, go to Save and rename a spreadsheet. You can open and edit Numbers spreadsheets saved on your Mac or in iCloud. Do any of the following: Choose File > Open (from the File menu at the top of your computer screen). Chose File > Open Recent to see the last ten spreadsheets you opened—either in iCloud or on your Mac. Double-click a Numbers spreadsheet in the Finder. If a spreadsheet is dimmed and can't be selected, it can't be opened by Numbers. If you can't open an encrypted Excel spreadsheet, try changing the type of encryption or the encryption options used in Excel, then save it again before opening it in Numbers. If you previously saved spreadsheets to iCloud but you don't see them in the Open dialog, make sure you set up iCloud on your Mac. You can set Numbers to open new spreadsheets from a template instead of from the template chooser. Choose Numbers > Preferences (from the Numbers menu at the top of your computer screen). In the General pane, select "Use template," then click Change Template to select a template. For more information about using templates, see Add custom templates. If you can't open a Numbers spreadsheet, make sure that you have the latest version of Numbers from the Mac App Store.
